

Internship Program

The World Mental Health Organization's Community Health Work Training Institute is proud to offer an Internship Program designed to provide real-world experience for individuals eager to make a meaningful impact in the community health field. Our internship program offers the perfect opportunity to bridge the gap between theoretical learning and practical application, giving you the hands-on experience needed to succeed as a Community Health Worker (CHW).

As an intern, you'll have the chance to work alongside experienced professionals in diverse settings, such as mental health, substance use, geriatrics, physical health, and more. You'll receive personalized guidance, participate in direct service delivery, and be exposed to various community health roles like care coordination, advocacy, outreach, and cultural mediation. This immersive experience will allow you to develop essential skills while contributing to the well-being of individuals and communities.

Our Internship Program is designed to complement our comprehensive training curriculum, so you can apply the knowledge and skills you've learned in a real-world setting. Whether you're looking to specialize in mental health coaching, substance use disorder, health education, or other areas, our internships offer hands-on opportunities to deepen your expertise and grow in your chosen field.

In addition to gaining valuable experience, internships at our institute also provide you with the chance to network with professionals in the community health sector and enhance your resume, making you a highly competitive candidate for future employment opportunities. Upon successful completion of the internship program, you'll be well-prepared to step into a full-time role as a Community Health Worker, with the practical experience and confidence to excel in the field.

If you're ready to take the next step in your community health career, our Internship Program is the perfect opportunity to gain the hands-on training and experience needed to thrive. Join us today and start making a difference in the lives of those who need it most!
